

NANCY GOSHOW SPEAKS ON INCORPORATING GREEN PRACTICES INTO BUSINESS AT DASNY CONFERENCE

Nancy Aber Goshow, senior managing partner of Goshow Architects in New York City, recently spoke on “Incorporating Green Initiatives Into Business” at the 24th annual Dormitory Authority of the State of New York, Minority/Women Business Enterprise Conference in Albany, NY.

The conference -- Growing Your Business in the 21st Century: DASNY of the Future –drew more than 900 registrants, a record attendance and a sharp increase from the 2008 conference. DASNY’s annual MWBE conference – 2009 was the 24th – has established itself as the largest in the state, offering attendees an unmatched array of resources and opportunities.

“We believe in a triple bottom line: Profit, People and Planet. We believe in this for ourselves and for our clients,” said Goshow. “Our vision is to design sustainable, energy efficient buildings to reduce their impact on the planet in the future. We recently moved our offices and took this opportunity to “go green” ourselves. Our move was a great opportunity for us to incorporate important sustainable design features to uphold the green-centric nature of our brand.”
